

THE VOICE SEASON 9 RUNNER-UP EMILY ANN ROBERTS ANNOUNCES RELEASE OF "SOMEDAY DREAM," SLATED FOR RELEASE FRIDAY, APRIL 19

PRE-ORDER AVAILABLE AT ALL DIGITAL OUTLETS NOW

Nashville, TN (April 15, 2019) - The Voice alum and southern traditionalist Emily Ann Roberts garnered the support of throngs of fans worldwide when she finished as runner-up on the ninth season of the show. Roberts, managed by industry heavyweights Starstruck Management, aims to continue encouraging her supporters as well as new fans to chase their dreams with the announcement of her new single "Someday Dream," The heart-felt anthem, penned by Roberts, Jason Saenz and Seth Mosley, is slated for release on Friday, April 19. "Someday Dream," the first release from her forthcoming EP, is available for pre-order at all digital outlets now.

Pre-order the single here.

"Someday Dream" has been my anthem since I wrote it with Jason and Seth and I couldn't be more excited to share it with everyone," exclaims Emily Ann Roberts. "My fans have always supported my dream and I want them to know there is no dream too big. If I can do it, they can too."

Roberts enlisted an all star production team on "Someday Dream" including Jason Saenz (Little Big Town, Drake White, Scotty McCreery) with mixing duties performed by Chuck Ainlay (Taylor Swift, Miranda Lambert and George Strait.)

Be sure to catch Emily Ann Roberts on the road this Spring. For tour dates and info, visit www.emilyannroberts.com.

About Emily Ann Roberts

Influenced by artists such as the Dixie Chicks and Dolly Parton, Emily Ann Roberts aims to take her love for organic, vintage country and make it fresh and new. She was raised on mountain music and bluegrass, so her love for that organic sound shines in her new country releases and sets her apart. After learning how to play guitar in the 6th grade, she began singing all over her hometown of Knoxville, Tennessee. In 2015, she placed as the Runner-Up on NBC's The Voice. Roberts then began cowriting and recording her own music in Nashville while playing shows at venues across the country. After working for three years on her music, in September of 2018 she made her debut release of her first original song, "Stuck On Me + You" and then followed that with another passionate original, "I've Got Forever".

Roberts is determined to continue creating music that makes an impact in the lives of those who listen. Her upcoming single, "Someday Dream," has a message of taking hold of your biggest dreams and chasing them in every moment. Roberts wants her listeners to know they're able to live out their dreams. "Someday Dream" is scheduled to release April 19th.

Roberts also has a passion for makeup and fashion and loves the outlet it gives her to be creative. She is a collector of cowboy boots and is always on the hunt to find a new unique pair to add to her collection. She also loves baking and decorating treats for people to enjoy and dreams of having her own cookbook one day to share her favorite recipes with others.

For more information about Emily Ann Roberts, visit www.emilyannroberts.com